Interim lights installed at construction site

By LORI HIGGINS

Staff writer

The university is working to make the construction site of the Lumpkin College of Business a safer place to walk at night by installing temporary lighting.

At the present time, there are no lights around the construction site between Coleman and Klehm halls.

Physical Plant Director Vic Robeson said he is not exactly sure when the lights will be installed, but said it should be within the next couple of weeks.

Plans to install the lights have been in the works for several weeks, Robeson said, but paperwork has slowed installation down.

Robeson added they are waiting for the change order to be approved by the Capital Development Board.

Grunloh Construction Co., contractors for the building, agreed to provide temporary lights around the construction site in its contract with Eastern, which means Eastern will not have to pay for the lighting.

When construction is complete, Robeson said the lights will be taken down.

Bangles roll in despite sales

By TONY CAMPBELL

Activities editor

Friday evening The Bangles will take the stage at Lantz Gym, even if it's only half full.

"The Bangles will go on as scheduled," UB Concert Coordinator Trever Brown said.

Ticket sales at the box office totaled 1,846 at the close of business Thursday. That means 33 tickets have sold since Wednesday.

Student ticket sales amount to 738; while 1,108 tickets have been sold to the general public. Exact sales from ticket outlet are still unavailable, Brown said, but he estimated that number at 300 tickets sold.

Tickets will be on sale until the concert, Brown said, so anyone who wants to buy a ticket may do so until concert time, which is 8 p.m.

Brown added the band was reluctant to hold a press conference and ultimately decided not to. "That's their decision."

Despite the low ticket sales, Brown said the set-up for the concert appears to be well organized and under control. Delta Sigma Phi is helping with the preparations for the concert.

Other people helping with the concert are the ushers, who receive free admittance for their services.

The choice of The Bangles has drawn criticism from some students who see the band as an inappropriate choice for a college audience.

But Brown argued that the band has everything going for it. They have a number one single, "Eternal Flame," and the band's popularity has currently been surging.

Some students, like sophomore Pat Gonski, can't "get into" The Bangles' music, though. "I would have rather had a different band, but I understand Eastern is limited."

And sophomore Lori Miller said she doesn't like the band enough to "spend $12 for tickets."

Brown said prices as low as possible considering the cost. "

Sheppard case is remembered

By ROB FAETH

Staff writer

An inside look at a precedent-setting trial was given at the the Illinois Political Studies Conference Thursday.

The Sam Sheppard case, a 1954 murder case which set a precedent for coverage in criminal court cases, was revisited and discussed with hindsight and insight.

Sheppard, a prominent Cleveland doctor, spent 10 years in prison for the killing of his wife due largely to the editorials in The Cleveland Press that accused him of the murder. Sheppard, who was eventually retried and found innocent, was, according to the Supreme court, a victim of mass hysteria generated by an overzealous press.

Those in attendance at the conference got an insiders view of the much maligned case as Evelyn Goodrick, an associate journalism professor, told of her memories of life in Cleveland during the controversial case.

"I remember the summer as being very hot," said Goodrick, "and the only news that was covered before the Sheppard trial

The Cleveland Press at the time of the trial.

According to Goodrick, Newhouse recalls that the editor of The Cleveland Press, Louis Seltzer, was a "moral bigot" who wanted to purge Cleveland of all sexual indecencies. As a result, Sam Sheppard became a primary target of Seltzer's zealous moral beliefs.

Newhouse remembered that many of the ethics, which reporters are taught and usually practice, were disregarded as a result of Seltzer's antics. Reporters were told to focus on the prosecution side of the case, and unfortunately that's what they did.

In retrospect, Goodrick said that Newhouse told her she would take a different stand and not sell out so easily. But, at the time, Newhouse said, reporters had families to feed and basically did what they were told.

Goodrick, reflecting on the experiences of Newhouse and remembering the case said, "This is a display of how the press has the power to do great good and great harm. Unfortunately this was great harm."

Tour could help update facilities

By CHARLA BRAUTIGAM

Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams will tour campus Friday - in a wheelchair.

Williams was asked by Gary Spezia, a graduate student in educational psychology and guidance, to tour campus with him to see what can be done to help make Eastern more accessible for the handicapped.

The tour will begin at 1 p.m. in Williams' office at Old Main.

Spezia, who was was injured a year and a half ago in an accident and has been in a wheelchair since, is doing a case study on the subject for a class taught by Chuck Eberly.

The project is not meant to "slam" anyone, Spezia said. "It's a positive thing."

"Not being able to get around is demeaning and not fair," Spezia said. "Especially since I pay the same price as everyone else to go to school."

Some of the buildings Spezia plans on touring include Student Services, Buzzard, McAfee and Lantz.

Central registration in McAfee is especially difficult for the handicapped, Spezia said. In order to get up the steps, Spezia said he must find someone who will help take him up the steps in his wheelchair backwards. "It's kind of dangerous," Spezia added.

Williams welcomed Spezia's idea to tour campus in a wheelchair.

"This is exactly what I'd do," Williams said. It's like the saying, "Come on my side of the fence and see how the grass cuts," Williams said.

"Everybody has been very helpful," Spezia said. "It's just a matter of finding the funds for it."

Spezia's brother will accompany the two with a video camera, Spezia said.

Group buys Eastern Airlines

NEW YORK— A group led by former baseball commissioner Peter V. Ueberroth agreed to buy Eastern Airlines for about $463.9 million in a deal that would give the strike-crippled carrier's employees a major share of the company, the parties announced Thursday.

The deal, subject to approval by Eastern creditors and the U.S. Bankruptcy Court, followed lengthy negotiations.

Texas Air Chairman Frank Lorenzo told a news conference the agreement includes about $200 million in cash and the rest in securities.

Abortion case stirs march

WASHINGTON - With the Bush administration pushing the Supreme Court to overturn its landmark abortion decision, abortion advocates are converging on the nation's capital this weekend for what they expect will be their largest demonstration.

They believe the stakes are higher than any time since the court's 1973 decision legalizing abortion and are determined to pick up the gauntlet Bush has thrown down.

"We have been silent far too long," said Kate Michelman, executive director of the National Abortion Rights Action League.

North told "not to tell anybody"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oliver North, testifying in his own defense, said Thursday Reagan administration superiors told him "not to tell anybody" about his role in funneling aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

North took the stand shortly after George Bush was identified in court as an intermediary in President Reagan's secret plan to aid the Contras.

North, who faces a dozen charges in connection with his role in the Iran-Contra affair, said, "I was particularly admonished" to keep secret "that another country was providing millions of dollars to help the Contras." Saudi Arabia supplied some $32 million in aid to the Contras, beginning in 1984.

Under questioning from his lawyer, the former White House aide depicted himself as a Marine officer with plans to take command of a battalion at Camp LeJeune when top officials in the Reagan administration enlisted him to run the secret Contra operation in 1984.

North testified in his own defense after his attorneys read into the record a lengthy account of the Reagan administration's efforts to keep alive the Contra struggle against the leftist government of Nicaragua.

The account, a legal "admission of fact" read to the jury with agreement of the prosecution, said Bush personally told the president of Honduras in 1985 that extra aid was being funneled to his country as payment for helping the Contras.

The account also said a representative of Panamanian military leader Manuel Noriega offered in a meeting with North to assassinate the Sandinista leadership.

Students protest drop in activities

By the Associated Press — About 800 students walked out of classes Thursday at Edwardsville High School to protest the school district's plans to drop sports and other extracurricular activities because of budget problems.

Edwardsville was among five Southern Illinois school districts preparing to make such major cuts after voters' rejection of tax increase proposals. Edwardsville voters rejected a proposed 75-cent tax increase Tuesday.

"We're trying to get people to realize the importance of athletics," said Andre Jackson, one of the students who protested. In all, Thursday's protest involved almost half the school's 1,650 students.

Administrators and teachers urged students to return to their classes and many had done so by 10:30 a.m., about half an hour after the protest began.

"The people you need to talk to obviously are not here today," Mayor-elect Dennis Detoye, also an art teacher and a coach at the school, told the students.

He suggested the students select representatives to meet with administrators and voice their concerns.

The district expects to have a $3 million deficit next year despite about $1.2 million in cuts already approved by the school board.

Council designs courses in education

By BOB SWINEY
Administration editor

Students entering Eastern in the future may have to take more required speech classes and do more writing than current students are doing.

The Council on Academic Affairs met Thursday and made progress in designing an integrated core of courses which would relate to each other in the general education curriculum.

The council also discussed how language could be modified in courses. Included in the language component are writing, reading, speaking and listening.

According to the Study of Undergraduate Education, "students need more practice in organizing their thoughts quickly and in responding clearly, concisely and confidently." Meaning students need to be able to speak "off the cuff" more easily.

"We get criticism from the elementary education community saying students are not adequate in oral communication," said Carol Helwig, professor of elementary and junior high education and a member of the audience at the meeting.

Helwig said students need to have a place to go and practice speaking in an informal setting.

The Undergraduate Study respects what the all-university required introduction to speech communication (SPC 1310) accomplishes, but suggests that a course in less structured speaking should be required to benefit students.

CAA also discussed the importance of writing in the general education curriculum.

Member Bill McGowan asked if it "would be appropriate to have the writing component in all of the general education courses?"

"That is an excellent thought, and the same thing is true that all language skills should be exercises," said Stephen Whitley, from the Academic Affairs office. "Exercising speaking, listening, writing and reading skills is very important."

The council questioned a guest, Judy Halchin, an associate professor of mathematics, on writing requirements in math courses. "We would like to include more writing in our general education math courses," she said.

Some council members said they have heard that writing cannot be included in math courses. "We can certainly include writing," replied math department chair John LeDuc.

CAA has not approved any courses for the integrated core, but it is working on developing the integrated core. Designing courses to meet the criteria will be the last step.

In other business, a course proposal from the recreation department was unanimously approved.

The course, REC 3310, travel and tourism, will "attempt to provide a need to exist for our majors because tourism is a booming industry and is growing by leaps and bounds," said Ewen Bryden, recreation and leisure studies chair.

Bryden said the department has had considerable correspondence with the new resort in Shelbyville, which may provide internships or job opportunities for graduating students.

The course will be available in the fall of 1989.

Defense Attorney, Steve Ryan, speaks about the controversial issue of allowing cameras in the courtroom at the 13th Illinois Political Studies Conference Thursday.

Camera arguments continue

By JEFF MADSEN
Senior reporter

By allowing cameras into every Illinois courtroom, the media would not report on every case, but only the "sensational" ones that would generate public interest.

That's the message Mattoon attorney Steve Ryan conveyed Thursday in "Cameras in the Courtroom," a conference included in the 13th Illinois Political Studies Conference. The conference, sponsored by the political science and journalism departments, focuses on government regulations in the 1990s.

"When we go into court, what we're supposed to be after is truth and justice," Ryan said. "I don't see the necessity of the camera being in there is going to further the public truth."

"The cases that are most difficult from a judicial point of view may be the ones that are most interesting to the media," added Ashton Waller, a Coles County associate circuit judge.

Ryan said if cameras were allowed into the courtrooms, the media should be obligated to cover every court case, not just ones that receive high publicity. He referred to a study where jurors said they paid special attention to cases where the media was present in the courtroom.

In cases where the media was not present, Ryan said, the jurors indicated they did not regard the case with the importance as if the media had been there.

Currently, 34 states allow cameras in both trial and appellate courts, while nine states (including Illinois) allow cameras only at the appellate court level. Five states and the federal courts prohibit cameras in the courtroom.

"Public opinion is really what's important in this issue," said Richard Thiese, of the Illinois News Broadcasters Association. "If public opinion demands cameras in the courtroom that may influence the court's decision."

Drug testing still causes problems

by KURT WILAMOWSKI
Staff Writer

Mandatory drug testing was the controversial issue addressed by a staff counsel member at the American Civil Liberties Union of Illinois Thursday afternoon as part of the 13th Illinois Political Studies Conference.

Alan Chen, an ACLU staff counsel member and a lawyer in Illinois and California, discussed high testing costs, unreliable test results, and the constitutionality question during the conference entitled "Mandatory Drug Testing: How Far Should Government Go?"

"Does urine testing in the workplace replace... an individual's constitutional right to privacy," Chen asked those who attended the conference.

Chen said the U.S. government seems to think so, because using urine to test for drug traces in employees is becoming more commonplace everyday. In addition to workplaces, high schools are also beginning to use the urine testing procedure to find out if the subjects use drugs, said Chen.

Chen said the urine tests are not even necessary. "Only 10 percent of people in the workplace use abused substances," said Chen. "Out of the 10 percent, 7 percent use alcohol, 2 percent use prescribed drugs and 1 percent use illegal substances."

"Our government is wasting $15 to $200 per test for only 10 percent of the workforce," Chen added. He said the money would be better invested in training employee assistants to observe workers on the job.

The biggest problem of the urine tests is that they cannot determine if the employee used a drug a year ago, last week or the day before the test was administered, Chen said.

Chen concluded by saying that if the government continues to allow urine testing, the basis of the Fourth Amendment which grants citizens the right of privacy will be destroyed.

Correction

In the April 6 edition of the Greek Week supplement to The Daily Eastern News, it was reported in a caption that Tau Kappa Epsilon raised money for Big Brothers/Big Sisters at their Keg Roll last Saturday. The money was raised for St. Jude's Hospital. Also, the Big Brothers/Big Sisters charity event will be carried on WEIC 1270 AM from 8:30 a.m. to noon, and not on WEIC 92 FM. ## Schmidt worthy of committee's consideration

Eastern's athletic director search committee lost a bit of credibility and class when it did not include Joan Schmidt in its list of candidates to receive an interview for the position.

The interim AD since R.C. Johnson left for Miami (Ohio) in December, Schmidt has filled in commendably in overseeing the completion of both basketball seasons and the beginning of spring season for numerous sports.

Editorial A member of Eastern's sports department for more than 18 years, she has undoubtedly garnered respect and learned the ins-and-outs of the program.

Schmidt, in her associate AD position, administers Eastern's eight women's sports on a daily basis. She has also coached volleyball, track and cross country here.

In the age of Michigan's Steve Fisher, "interim" does not carry a poor connotation and Schmidt has made significant moves in her three-month tenure.

Two of her actions include the re-structuring of the Panther Club's fund collection and placing the pep band again in the student section (which will prove to be popular with all involved) for the 1989 football season.

But rather than staying home and giving Schmidt a shot at a position for which she has trained on-the-job for nearly two decades, the search committee picked four outsiders - the nearest in location to Charleston currently works 300 miles away.

Even if a promotions, marketing and media whiz is given the job and raises the visibility of Eastern athletics, a poorly administered department does not look good in any light.

And alas, the committee missed a shot at national recognition by leaving Schmidt out. No university in the nation with a Division I football program has hired a woman AD.

Granted, qualifications should be the final factor when selecting the No. 1 candidate. But Schmidt has sacrificed to Eastern athletics more than enough in her career to at least earn an interview.

At least give the Bangles a chance

Here it was, the night before the Bangles concert and I found out I couldn't go.

Big deal, right? I mean obviously no Eastern student in his right mind would want to go see a band that has topped the charts continuously for several years - including this past week.

Ahhhhh, call me nuts. I wanted to go.

Assuming tickets would still be available the night of the show, my boyfriend and I decided we would buy ours at the door. But, at the last minute I found out that a mutual friend of ours was getting married on Friday. Totally bummed, I called my friend Otis Campbell.

"Otis, I can't go to the concert, I feel like a hypocrite," I said. "I mean just think, as a member of The Daily Eastern News editorial board for the past three years, I have repeatedly contributed to critical editorials about the University Board's failure to book quality acts for concerts. Now, they finally do something good and I'm not going."

Amy, be real, noooooobody is going to the Bangles concert.

"Yea, that seems to be the case, Otis, and I think it stinks. Why isn't anybody going?"

I don't know. Well, I heard that nobody was going so I thought, like bummer, I don't want to go to a concert that noooooobody is going to be at. Like holy bummer, I'd be like standing in Lantz Gym all by myself with four chicks with guitars, tambourines and drumsticks. I'd be soooo embarrassed.

"That is the stupidist excuse I have ever heard in my entire life. That's like saying 'I'm not going to go to the bathroom because noooooobody is in there right now.' What are you going to do instead?"

Well, I heard there were going to be a lot of people at Mom's Friday night. I think I'll go there.

"Otis, there are always a lot of people at Mom's, what makes this so different?"

Amy, you are really getting dense in your old age. What makes it different . . . It's a FRIDAY!!!

Amy Carr

"News flash Otis, Mom's is open every Friday there are always lots of people there. Besides, it's open after the concert. Why would you want to do same thing you can do every weekend when you go see a concert right on campus instead. I mean even if you're not an avid Bangles fan, it is something different to do, right?"

Yea, I guess, but it costs $12!

"Otis, that is about $8 cheaper than most concerts and you would probably spend that much at Mom's anyway."

Well, sure, but at least I'd get a good buzz, heh, heh.

"Come on, can't you have a good time without alcohol?"

Gee, I never really thought about it . . . I guess I could have an OK time without alcohol if I haaaaa. But the point is I don't have to. I can blow off this concert along with all of the rest of my fellow classmates and go drink in the bars even though I'm only God, I love Eastern.

"If you really loved Eastern, you would take advantage of what your student fees are going to, like go to the Bangles concert. If students don't take advantage of this opportunity, the UB is going to lose a big money big time and chances are there won't be a spring concert next year, let alone a big name band."

OK, OK, chill out. The real reason I don't want to go is I heard a rumor that the Bangles were going to be at Mom's after the concert. Susanna Hoffs is so hot, I think I'll buy her a drink. What do you think?

"I think she'll be real impressed. Otis. Especially when she asks you what you thought of the show. You tell her you missed it because you were keeping her 75 cent draft cold at the bar."

Hmmm, I never thought of it that way. How about I get a bunch of my friends to go to Friday's concert. We'll buy tickets at the door and throw love notes to Susanna on the stage. If she kicks them off, we'll leave. If she smiles and starts singing "In Your Room" we'll assume she thinks Eastern guys are hot and we'll stay. Good enough?

Your turn

Ideas suggested for The News

Dear editor;

May I suggest two ideas to add to The Daily Eastern News besides news, announcements and advertisements?

How about an advice column? Eastern has psychology majors along with a lot of other possible advisers roaming our campus wanting a little experience in advising. It would be a nice benefit to those in need of advice and informative to the other readers as well. Also, since comics are entertaining and tend to lighten the air, how about more comics - possibly a separate comic page? Two specific comics that seem to be very popular are "The Far Side" and "Calvin and Hobbes," but I'm sure there are other popular, well-known comics which a lot of other readers would like to see in the EIU newspaper also.

Thank you for taking time out to read these suggestions. I enjoy reading your paper and hope you take these two ideas into serious consideration. I am looking forward to seeing these additions to The Daily Eastern News.

Walgreens offers more variety

By CATHY PODWOJSKI
City editor

As of Tuesday, Walgreen Drug Store, 1430 E St., opened up in its new location one store down from its previous spot, but with more to offer its customers than before — Walgreens is now selling liquor.

One door down from the regular Walgreen Drug Store and general area, a liquor department opened Wednesday, said Tom Kaufmann, the executive assistant.

"We figured it would be a convenience for everybody if we sold liquor," Kaufmann said.

Kaufmann said sales have been a little slow; however, the grand opening has yet to be held, which may account for the slow start.

But assistant manager Chris Magnotta, said sales have been constant and pretty good.

Most Walgreens sell alcohol already, Kaufmann said the decision to sell alcohol at Charleston's branch was a corporate one.

"It caters to mostly everybody with some fine wines and a few inexpensive ones," Magnotta said. "There's more middle-of-the-road to higher priced wines, but if there's something you want that we don't have, we'll be happy to order it."

Walgreens purchased the former Family Pharmacy drugstore in September and then made the decision to move next door where the Ben Franklin store previously operated.

Magnotta said Walgreens does not rent out kegs at this time and is not sure if the store will begin to. However, he added Walgreens, does have a good-sized selection and probably "overall better prices."

The liquor portion of the store is next to Walgreens, separated by a wall which completely closes the two sections from each other. Deputy City Clerk Katie Pollock said all liquor establishments must be separated by a wall from the regular portion of the store to keep children away from the liquor.

Family recital set

By STEVE RICHARDS
Staff writer

George Sanders' 25th faculty piano recital on Sunday will showcase not only his musical abilities, but his entire family's.

The recital will start at 7:30 p.m. in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Sanders' wife Karen and daughters Claire and Camille will also contribute to the recital. George and Karen Sanders are music professors at Eastern.

Sanders said he's excited about bringing his musical family together on stage.

And though George will perform solo for most of the recital, his wife and daughters will eventually join him on stage to perform. One of the many highlights of the show will include the performance of Bedrich Smetana's "Rondo in C major," which will feature George and Karen playing in unison.

But Sanders said the highlight should be a selection that will be performed by all the family members. "I'm looking forward to that," he said.

Of the music he selected, Sanders said "I don't play anything I don't like." Therefore, the selection of music will consist totally of American 20th century music, which Sanders said he likes best.

Grocers fight cancer

By CHARLA BRAUTIGAM
Campus editor

Wilb Walker grocery stores and The American Cancer Society are joining forces Saturday to help fight cancer by promoting healthy eating.

Wilb Walker, 960 18th St. and 1460 E. St., is taking part in "Grocers Fight Cancer Day."

The one-day event entices customers to take part by offering in-store bargains and by donating five cents to the American Cancer Society for every dollar spent.

Shoppers will also be entertained by a variety of volunteers as they shop for bargains.

Among the volunteers are the characters from "Anything's Possible," a weekly program on WEIU-TV.

Gaye Harrison, who plays Liddy Jones on the program, said she hopes the characters from "Anything's Possible" will entice area residents to come out and support the cause.

"We're hoping that kids in the area and their parents are watching the show, and that we might be an incentive (for them to come out)," Harrison said.

Washington march set

By CAROLYN GUDITIS
Staff writer

College and high school students nationwide will be in Washington, D.C. Sunday to show their support for "Women's Equality/Women's Lives," which is sponsored by the National Organization For Women.

The purpose for the march is to support rights for safe, legal birth control and abortion.

Though Eastern was informed of the march through information received by the Women's Resource Center and the Women's Studies Council from the National Organization For Women, Eastern students will not be attending.

However, some Illinois schools will be attending the march. Schools attending are Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, Greenville College, Northern Illinois University, University of Chicago and University of Illinois.

Buses leaving from the Champaign Illini Union will transport students to Washington, D.C. for $63.

Ruth Hoberman, chair of the Women's Studies Council, said buses filled up quickly and Eastern was contacted too late to make plans.

For those unable to attend the March in Washington, D.C., NOW is sponsoring a rally in Champaign from 3 to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The rally will be held in the University YM-YWCA K-Room, 1001 S. Wright.

Linda Bowhall, a graduate assistant at the Women's Studies Council, said, "The rally in Champaign offers students who can't make it to Washington, the opportunity to speak out for women's lives."

Both Hoberman and Bowhall encourage students to publicize the march and the rally as well as other women's issues, but feel it's risky for Eastern to do the same.

"If student groups funded by the university supported the abortion march, they might risk the chance of losing their funding," Bowhall said.

Graduate art exhibit opens at Tarble

By STEVE RICHARDS
Staff writer

The 1989 Graduate Exhibition, which opens Friday, offers a chance for all graduate students to display their various forms of art.

Many varied and contemporary exhibits will be on display at the Tarble Arts Center with a reception to be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The exhibition, which runs until April 30, will display artwork ranging from traditional forms to post-modern styles. Admission is free and is open to the public.

Michael Watts, director of the Tarble Arts Center, said "The exhibition is held so that graduate students in the studio arts program can exhibit their work, which is a requirement for the program. It's the equivalent of written work in other programs."

Watts said a total of 10 master's degree candidates in the studio arts program will be participating in this year's exhibition. The artists' and works to be featured are: Angela Lyon, sculpture; Jorge Montemayor, ceramics; Denise Seif, metals; Grant Watson, painting; Michael Hall, sculpture; Leslie Stewart, sculpture; Anthony Treadway, ceramics; Robert Collier, painting and drawing; Tracy Bernhardt, sculpture and Christina Densford, ceramics.

This exhibition was coordinated by Garrett DeRuiter of the art department, with participation by the different graduate committees.

Entrance in the exhibition is required for successful completion of a masters degree in studio art.

Technology field to be explored

By JAMES SCOTT
Staff writer

The Women in Technology Symposium will explore the various options for women in the field of technology at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Grand Ballroom of the Martin Luther King Jr. University Union.

"Options for Women in Technology," which is sponsored by the School of Technology, will be a discussion of the different paths women may pursue in the technology field. The symposium also includes a luncheon in the canteen.

The registration fee for the symposium is $3.50, which covers the cost of the luncheon. Registration for the symposium can be made by contacting the School of Technology.

Keynote speaker Kathy Minor, an employee of General Electric, will discuss various job positions she has held at GE. Minor has worked with the company for 10 years and has held several positions including engineering chemist, quality/manufacturing engineer and quality assurance manager.

A five-member panel comprised of women in the fields of industry and education will address issues of concern for women considering a career in technology.

Technology department chair Larry Helsel said, "the panel members were selected on the merit of being good role models."

The members of the panel include Janet Robb, professor at the University of North Texas at Denton; Betty Rider, researcher for the department of industrial technology at Ohio State University; Margaret Place, chemical engineer for Quantum Chemical Corp in Tuscola, Ill.; Jana Nielson, a graduate assistant at Eastern and Denise Steward-son, George Mason Junior-Senior High School, Falls Church, Va.

Also attending the symposium will be representatives from major companies, such as Mc-Donnell Douglas, R.R. Donnelley, Blaw Knox, and Trailmobile to discuss career opportunities for women.

New UB staff organizes events

By JENNIFER KRULAC
Staff writer

The new University Board executive staff has been busy organizing future events since the new UB appointments.

After their appointments in February, the new UB staff members began their positions in March.

Most students are familiar with the various activities sponsored by the UB, such as the Bangles concert and comedian Tom Anzalone, but many students are unclear on the selection process of the UB coordinators.

UB Chair Melissa Boehm said students interested in positions on the UB executive staff must fill out an application in February. Then, the student will be interviewed by the entire incumbent staff, which then chooses people for the next staff.

The UB has 14 coordinators and the executive staff, which is a chair and vice-chair who are elected by majority vote. Coordinators are in charge of organizing UB sponsored events.

The chair and vice-chair terms are one year, but the coordinators may remain in the position indefinitely.

The number of hours required varies, depending on the position held.

"As of now, none of us get paid, and at most universities the UB executives do," Boehm said.

Trevino leads Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Lee Trevino, stalking the green jacket that has eluded him for two decades, coaxed a 5-under-par 67 from gusty winds and took a one shot lead Thursday in the opening round of the 53rd Masters.

"Not bad for an old cripple," the 49-year-old Trevino said, as he swaggered away from the 18th green at the Augusta National Golf Club, a course he once vowed he would never play again.

Three times in the 1970s, he declined an invitation to this elite event. As late last year he said, "I hope to God they don't send me an invitation. I don't want to be here." He still refuses to use the lockerroom, changing his shoes in the parking lot, because of discomfort with the club's elitism.

ISU woos Fisher

NORMAL (AP) — Illinois State is in the market for a basketball coach and Steve Fisher, interim leader of NCAA champion Michigan, is getting the school's attention.

"The tournament's over now, and we'd be very interested in a Steve Fisher," Illinois State Athletic Director Ron Wellman said Wednesday. "But the first step would be to talk to (Michigan Athletic Director) Bo Schembechler" for permission.

Fisher, 44, is a 1967 graduate of Illinois State. He played basketball and received his master's degree there.

Fisher, however, is considered a candidate for the Michigan job, and Schembechler plans to interview him this week.

SEMOTION Relays has AMCU flavor

Eastern's track team will get its first look at their Association of Mid-Continent Universities rivals in the outdoor season this week-end when it participates in the SEMOTION Relays at Southeast Missouri Friday and Saturday afternoon.

"It's a pretty big meet," said Eastern's assistant track coach Tom Akers. "It's a relay meet, it not really the type of meet we like to run in."

Although a non-scoring meet, it will feature AMCU members Western Illinois, Southwest Missouri State and Northern Iowa

Men's Track

as well as Illinois State, Indiana State and Southern Illinois.

"It will be the first chance to see any of our conference teams since the indoor conference," Akers said. "I expect to see an improved Southwest Missouri State team there."

A Panther squad of 22 will compete in the meet which features a full menu of relay events.

Eastern will participate in four, including the 4 x 100 meter, 4 x 800, the 4 x 400 and the sprint medley, which includes two legs of 200-meters, one leg of 400-meters and one of 800-meters.

The Panthers will also have most of their injured members back from their injuries, including sprinter Greg Heggs, pole-vaulter Mark Hamilton, decathlete Darrin Barber, but will still be without the services of sprinter Eric Childs.

"He's still coming back from a groin sprain," Akers said. "He won't be running."

The Panthers are looking for some good news from weightman Jeff Gennarelli, who is expected to qualify for the NCAA championship in the hammer throw. Gennarelli has already clinched a spot as a shot-putter.

Another member of the squad,

Dan Steele, also may qualify. Akers said that it may not be yet.

"It will take a super effort Dan Steele in the intermediate hurdles," Akers said.

Another group of Panthers are looking to leave their mark on the school record books. Marcus Glover, Eric Baron, Weber and Jon Bates.

All freshmen, they will attempt to take advantage of the various relays that will be run and to break Eastern's freshman record in the mile relay. Three of four are members of the quartet that hold the indoor freshman record.

Women's tennis team bound for Missouri

By AL LAGATTOLLA
Staff writer

Eastern's women's tennis team will face another Gateway Conference rival Saturday as they head to Southwest Missouri State for a triangular meet.

The Lady Panthers will face Southwest Baptist as well on Saturday, and then will stop at Columbia, Mo., to take on the Missouri Tigers Sunday.

"I just want them to keep getting better and better and one way to do that is to play those kinds of teams," said Eastern coach Grant Alexander.

Southwest Missouri State took third in the Gateway a season ago, and are expected to finish around that spot again this season. The Lady Panthers finished eighth.

"I want to win," Alexander said. "I think that we can win, but it would take an outstanding effort by everybody."

And at least one Eastern member has vowed to give that effort.

Freshman Missy Holste, the Lady Panthers' No. 1 performer, is not too familiar with the Southwest Missouri squad. But the fact that they are in Eastern's conference spurs her on.

"It's good to beat a team in your conference," Holste said. "I would rather beat a team in conference."

"I don't think that anyone is expecting too much of me," Holste said. "I just need to find some confidence and get into a groove."

One Lady Panther that is already in a groove is Angel Hoffek.

Hoffek is 5-0 at No. 4 singles and 5-0 at No. 3 doubles, where she teams with freshman Dawn Brannon.

But Alexander is hoping for some breakthrough performances elsewhere as well.

"I'm looking for improved play at No. 2 singles (where Brannon is 1-4) and continued good play of Lori (Neate, 2-3 at No. 6 singles), Jill (Bachochin, 2-3 at No. 3 singles) and Angel," Alexander said. "It'll be interesting to see how our doubles teams do."

But even if the Lady Panthers, now 1-4, return with a 1-7 record, Alexander would not be disappointed if they perform well.

"With the people I've got, the more they play they'll get better," Alexander said. "They've got a good work ethic; they're a group of overachievers."

Panthers.

Callahan said the team is hoping to finally play at Monier Field after playing their first 19 games on the road.

"It's going to be nice to finally get back home," the first-year coach said. Shortstop Brian Howard echoed his coach's words.

"That (playing at home) will be a big plus," Howard said. "Not being in front of the home crowd is tough."

The freshman shortstop said the team's attitude has not changed after some tough losses. "In a way, even though we're 1-0 to the Sycamores) it will be a confidence builder."

"We're not getting blown out of games; the games we have most have been in the ninth inning," Howard said.

Of Eastern's nine losses, eight have been one-run games.

"We're better than our record indicates," Howard said.

Experts discuss Rose's plight

White, however, commented, "I can't believe that they'd (the commissioner's office) spend all this time investigating if they didn't have something on him."

Rose says it's (length of investigation) because they can't find anything on him. The commissioner's office says they were waiting for Bart Giamatti (to assume the role of commissioner) in the past few weeks (his first day in the job was Monday)."

White added the investigation, which originated in the commissioner's office on March 20, has taken long enough. "I think they (the commissioner's office) need to find him or find him guilty," he said.

Thomson said although he has no idea if Rose actually gambled in games, he respects baseball's all-time leader in hits too much to think Rose is guilty.

"The few times I've met him, he just impressed me as a considerate person — posing for photographs with my family, signing autographs," Thomson, who hit "the shot heard 'round the world" for the New York Giants to win the 1951 National League one-game playoff over the Brooklyn Dodgers. "I can't believe he would hurt baseball like that."

Slaughter took a wait-and-see stance. "You know what they say, 'You're innocent until proven guilty,' so I won't pass judgment," said Slaughter, the former St. Louis Cardinals star who made his famed "mad-dash" from first base on Harry Walker's single to score the winning run and give the Cards the 1946 World Series title over the Red Sox.

And if "Charley Hustle" is found guilty of betting on baseball, what effect will it have on the game? "The man's one of the biggest names in baseball. It would be a tragedy if he was found guilty," White said.

However, White added that the major leagues and baseball as a whole would survive. "The game is so strong, it'll survive," he said. "The game is too well-administered to be hurt by it (Rose controversy)."

White compared the Rose inquiry to then-Brooklyn Dodgers manager Leo Durocher's 1947 gambling-related suspension.

"One thing to consider is they (commissioner's office) suspended Leo Durocher for a year for just associating with alleged gamblers," he said. "Baseball is a clean game, which is why these problems (Durocher's suspension, Rose's alleged gambling, etc.) are so magnified."

The commissioner's office's inquiry currently must be weighing in on his team, the Reds, White said.

No matter what outcome results from the investigation, Rose's reputation will remain somewhat tarnished, Slaughter said. "I think all the publicity will hurt him (even if found innocent)," he said, adding, "The press probes into things deeper than when I played," a reason for the increased prevalence of controversial issues in baseball.

Miami Invite attracts Craft, Lady Panthers

By PHIL CHAPARRO
Staff writer

Eastern's women's track team will get its second dose of outdoor competition this weekend when the Lady Panthers travel to the University of Miami (Ohio) Invite at 1 p.m. Saturday in Oxford, Ohio.

This will be the Lady Panthers' second trip in as many years to the invitational at Miami, the school where former Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson resides at the AD post.

"We would normally go to the the SEMO (Southeast Missouri) meet," Eastern coach John Craft said. "We got wind of this meet and they really have a nice facility, so I thought we'd go back again."

This weekend's meet will give Eastern track star Tina Dawson another chance to qualify in the high jump for the NCAA Division I Outdoor Championships at Provo, Utah on June 1.

Dawson leaped 5-9 in the high jump at the Western Invite Saturday, and in the process set a new school record beating the old mark of 5-8.

This leaves Dawson just short of the NCAA qualifying mark of 6-0 in the event, and with her new 10-step approach to the ramp, a six-foot leap will not be out of reach.

"I really feel it has helped me," Dawson said of her new approach. "I think that it gives me better speed coming in, and I really think that was a big factor in my clearing 5-9."

"I have the potential to go to Nationals, and that's something I have to think about."

With the advice of Craft, Dawson has changed her approach in the high jump from eight to 10 steps.

Panthers update

Decent weather permitting, coach Dan Callahan said the field will be ready for Sunday's twinbill.

"The field would have been playable today (Thursday)," Callahan said.

Eastern conducted practices outside for only the third time this spring Thursday. A soft rain fell on the Panthers hitters as they took batting practice, but Callahan said the field looked to be in good condition.

The Panthers lost four games to the Aces last year. Eastern was shut out in three games scoring only in an 11-3 loss.

Eastern, Aces set for 4-game series

By BILL LOOBY

Staff writer

Eastern's baseball team will become well acquainted with Evansville's squad this weekend.

The Panthers play a double-header 1 p.m. Saturday at Evansville, Ind., and will play their home-opening twinbill 1 p.m. Sunday at Monier Field.

Eastern, 10-9, lost both games of a doubleheader at Indiana State Wednesday and will be put to the test against a determined Evansville team.

"They swing the bat very well and they run like crazy," Eastern coach Dan Callahan said. "It sounds to me like they have a lot of scrappers."

Callahan added that the Aces' recruiting has probably been boosted by having the first player taken in the major league draft last year, when pitcher Andy Benes was selected by the San Diego Padres.

Hitting continues to be a major concern for Callahan's squad, which mustered just 11 base hits at Indiana State (three coming in the 1-0 second-game loss).

"We're just not being aggressive, we're watching too many third strikes," Callahan said. "In all fairness to the hitters though, we haven't faced live pitching that much."

Callahan said the hitting should come around for the Panthers. "We've got guys that can hit the ball."

Catcher Dan Hargis leads the team with a .492 average. The junior catcher has clubbed eight home runs and knocked in 29 runs.

First baseman Dana Leibovitz and rightfielder Jeff Jetel follow Haris with .323 and .305 averages.

Callahan will throw Scott Nelson (0-2) and Darin Kopac (2-0) Saturday at Evansville. Sunday the Aces face Ryan Edwards (2-0) and junior Mike Deese (2-0) in the doubleheader at Terre Haute.

Edwards lost despite throwing a gem. The junior right-hander struck out eight and allowed three hits in seven innings.

The Aces, 10-12, will have to shoot top guns Craig Fisher and Brian Gibson (2-0) in the

Schmidt reacts

Promotion emphasis surprises

By DAVID LINDQUIST

Sports editor

Eastern's interim Athletic Director Joan Schmidt offered her views on the candidates vying for the regular AD post Thursday, one day after the search committee narrowed its list to four applicants.

Schmidt has been employed in Eastern's athletic department for 18 years and was among the final eight candidates considered for Eastern's AD position, which was vacated in December when R.C. Johnson accepted the same job at Miami (Ohio).

"I only know what I read in the newspapers," Schmidt said of the committee's decision to interview applicants Gary Gallup, Chuck Nagle, Michael Ryan and Terry Wanless. "I was first surprised that they selected four (candidates) after announcing it would be five."

Bob Saltmarsh, chair of the search committee, said President Stan Rives' guidelines allowed the committee to invite as many as five and no less than three candidates to Charleston for interviews.

Schmidt also expressed concerns about the four candidates' strong backgrounds in media relations and marketing.

"I'm surprised there was such heavy emphasis on promotions," Schmidt said.

Gallup, currently athletic director at Southern Utah State, served two years as director of athletic promotions at Texas-El Paso and two years as director of media relations at Wyoming.

Nagle, an associate athletic director at Bowling Green, was director of marketing and promotions for the Atlantic 10 Conference from 1983-85.

Ryan, an associate AD at New Mexico State, had been a public relations director for two major league baseball teams, the San Diego Padres and Houston Astros, for a total of 10 years.

"I've never pushed myself as a promoter," Schmidt said. "My management skills and ability to administrate are what I consider to be my strengths. I've said many times that I would hire a promotions and fundraising director (if I would become athletic director)."

Saltmarsh contended that the promotions backgrounds held by the candidates were more coincidence than emphasis.

"(The promotions backgrounds) were not the governing variables that landed the individuals interviews," Saltmarsh said.

Schmidt added she felt the four candidates are employed at "not particularly successful programs."

The combined 1988 football record of Southern Utah State, Bowling Green, New Mexico State and Western Carolina (where Wanless is athletic director) would be 10-35.

Schmidt said in the immediate future she plans to stay at Eastern.

"I have a real strong commitment to Eastern, being here since 1970," she said. "I'm not going to jump somewhere else just to jump."

Purdue offered Schmidt a job in the area of assistant athletic directing last fall, but she did not accept the post because, "it didn't seem to be very challenging."

Thursday Saltmarsh also released the names of the other three applicants in the final eight who will not be interviewed.

They are: Sam Baker, an associate athletic director at Vanderbilt since 1986; Richard McDuffie, AD at North Texas State; and John Benn.

Benn resigned last Friday as Tulsa's AD, a position he held for less than two years. His future plans are unknown.

Experts discuss Rose

Editor's note: This is the second piece of a three-part series covering major league baseball.

By JEFF SMITH

Associate sports editor

Former Cincinnati Reds star and current manager Pete Rose's rumored gambling on baseball games, the ensuing present investigation by the commissioner's office and in-depth reporting by certain newspapers have caused a considerable stir among baseball people and the public.

An additional report broken Wednesday by The Plain Dealer of Cleveland and The Cincinnati Post reported that Rose may be the person code-named "G-1" in Internal Revenue Service documents who bet $8,000 to $16,000 a day on major league games early in the 1987 season.

If Rose is found to have betted on baseball games, he will be suspended by Commissioner Bart Giamatti for one year. If Rose gambled on Reds games, he will be banned from the game for life.

So, what will happen in the Rose case? What effects have the allegations had on Rose, the Reds, baseball and the fans' views of the game? What will be the implications of the Rose investigation, whether he is found innocent or guilty?

1988 Hall of Fame inductee Enos Slaughter, former New York Giants star Bobby Thomson and Kansas City Royals announcer and Eastern alumnus Fred White gave their opinions on the subject.

To the most obvious question asked, "Will Rose be found innocent or guilty by the commissioner's office?", none of the experts would predict one way or the

No. 12 NIU threatens home softball streak

By JEFF SMITH

Associate sports editor

At first glance, Eastern's softball team's 1989 home opener at 3 p.m. Sunday against 12th-ranked Northern Illinois (19-4) looks like a definite mismatch.

And the 3-9 Lady Panthers' chances of extending their 16-game home winning streak in the doubleheader appear even more bleak.

However, head coach Janet Marquis offered a statistic in Eastern's favor. "Northern's a very tough team, but they are beatable. We were beating Indiana (4-3 after three innings at the Indiana Tournament before the game was called because of rain), and Indiana beat them (Northern, 7-0 in the second game of a doubleheader split)," Marquis said.

Meanwhile, the Lady Panthers have steadily improved during the season, Marquis said. "The batting average is creeping up (from .199 after an eight-game Spring Break Florida trip to .218 after Tuesday's twinbill defeat at Southern Illinois). The errors have slowed down

(only one error committed at Southern Illinois). Our pitching has at a glance been spotty, but it's getting more effective."

"We're putting everything together. It's (consistent winning) just a matter of time."

Still, Northern stands as a difficult opponent for the Lady Panthers. Northern is a team that qualified for the (1988) College World Series, which is quite an honor, especially for a team that doesn't receive an automatic bid to the (NCAA) Tournament," Marquis said. Huskies are members of the Northern Conference, which does not have an automatic berth.

Northern has no apparent team weaknesses and features two All-American players, Marquis said.

"They're (Huskies) solid everywhere with two standout players, (pitcher) Schrader and (outfielder-shortstop) Justin," she said.

"Beth Schrader (11-1, 0.52 ERA) is an Academic All-American. I'm impressed with her as a person. She's a right-hander who throws hard and has a in-curve that's just phenomenal. She'll pitch Sunday."

They had a dream.

"When we bought this place, we had a dream that special groups would come here; like a retreat place," said Angela Lee, owner of Spring Haven campground and recreational area.

Although the dream of Angela and her husband, Ben, has yet to be realized, they are making steady progress toward it.

The Lees bought Spring Haven, located 3 miles east of Charleston on Illinois Route 16, three and a half years ago. It had been closed for three years and needed a lot of work.

"Nothing was here," she said. The previous owners had auctioned off most of the stuff and all that was left were the buildings.

Ben said since buying the recreation area, more campsites, electrical services and a pavillion for picnics have been added.

Currently, he said the park offers camping, fishing, a 18-hole miniature golf course, paddle boats, canoes and hay rack rides.

The facility rents both tents and campers. Tents rent for $12.50 while the campsite is an additional $7.50. Campers go for anywhere from $25 to $45 per night for up to four people. The campsite, which includes water, sewer and electrical hookups, is $9.75 per night for up to four people. Shower facilities for campers are also available. If you plan to camp for more than two days there is a discount, Ben said.

This year, for the first time, the Lees will open the lake to the public for fishing. "Last year we allowed campers and this year we will open to the public," she said. The cost for one day of shoreline fishing is $2 per day and $35 for a one year pass. Also for the first time this year, they will be allowing boats with electric motors at the cost of $5 per day and $60 for a pass for one year.

The lake is stocked with catfish, bass, crappie, trout and bluegill.

Miniature golf cost $1.50 for the first 18 holes and $1 for each additional game.

She said they have paddle boats and canoes for two people for $2.90. They also have one three-person boat for $3.90.

The hay rack rides, also being offered for the first time, cost $2 per person for a one-hour ride. She said "we offered it (hay rides) to campers last summer on Friday nights and this year we feel we are ready for the public."

He said they currently own one wagon, but if the rides prove to be popular, they will build another one which can be hooked to the first one for larger groups.

Spring Haven also has a pool and a water slide which the Lees said will open on Memorial Day weekend. The pool costs $1.50 for the day and the water slide costs $6.95 per day. Ben said that there is a 35 percent discount for groups of 10 or more and for groups of 20 there is a 45 percent discount.

On Memorial Day, Angela said all activities, excluding camping, will be half price.

Spring Haven offers a snack bar with soda, popcorn, hot dogs and ice cream.

The dream that the Lees talked about involves youth groups, church groups and other family-type groups using Spring Haven as a retreat area.

Ben said he would like to build a building that would have

Dear Reader,

As the weather becomes warmer, more people will begin spending time outside. We thought this issue of On the Verge of the Weekend could be a good place for you to catch your spring fever.

We've devoted stories to the great outdoors – more specifically where around Eastern there is to go if you're experiencing that case of spring fever and have to get away.

For those who prefer roughing it when they spend a day outside, we have included several parks where camping and hiking trails are available.

For those of you who like your outdoor activities to be a little less strenuous, we have included a couple of areas around the city of Charleston that provide organized activities such as water fun and horseback riding.

Explore the wonders of Fox Ridge

BY JOSEPH M. TUCKER

Even though the park is popular for its challenging trails, one need not be an experienced hiker to participate in the wonders of Fox Ridge Park. The nature walks available at Fox Ridge offer the same abundance of sights to the novice as the experienced hiker.

Scarred by eons of geological activity, the Fox Ridge State Park region is a land of incredible beauty. Established in 1939, the park soon became revered as one of the most unique parks in the Eastern Illinois area.

The park has several trails to choose from. One of the most enjoyable is the one that leads to Gobbler's Knob. There are different paths that lead to this hilltop view overlooking the Embarrass River, all of which snake over rugged and windswept bluffs.

"It is unusual to find this kind of terrain in a prairie region," said Greg Kile, who has worked at Fox Ridge for nearly 17 years.

Besides hiking, the 1,400-acre park has several other activities to choose from. The park boasts a 750-acre hunting area, horseshoe and volleyball pits, camp grounds and a lake for fishing.

The park is open year round from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. It offers various types of camping sites. The class B sites, which have an electrical outlet, can be rented for $8 a night. The class C sites, which are for tents, can be rented for $4 a night. For more information contact Greg Kile, site superintendent, at 345-6416.

Even though fishing from shore is prohibited, boats are offered free of charge at the Fox Ridge Lake. A fishing license is needed to fish at the lake.

Large mouth bass are predominantly caught at the lake.

However, the lake was stocked with channel catfish last year. Further information can be obtained by calling Victor Santucci, the resident biologist, at 345-6490.

The park has a nature walk scheduled for April 15. The walk, which is free, will identify the different species of wildflowers that will soon start to bloom in the park.

sleeping facilities for the groups there on retreats. This would be the next major project he would like to undertake.

He said they are currently accepting reservations for these groups to use their current facilities for retreats and have had several requests for this from out-of-state groups.

He said he would also like to remodel the barn, which is currently used by groups for parties and other gatherings. The cost of renting the barn depends on the number of people, how long they wish to use it, if there is going to be entertainment and if they want alcohol.

Also available for groups is a pavillion for picnics. The cost of this also depends on the number of people, how long they wish to use it, etc. For picnickers, a softball area and volleyball court is available.

Spring Haven also boasts the largest statue of Abraham Lincoln in the world.

However, Spring Haven is not only open in the summer. Several winter activities are available. The Lees rent snowmobiles, cross country skis, three-wheelers and skates if the lake freezes. She said they offered winter equipment this year for the first time, but it was not used because of the lack of snow.

Turkey Run provides a change of pace

BY MIKE FITZGERALD
Editor in chief

Students who are looking for a change of pace from the weekend routine and who don't mind roughing it can find an abundance of activities to occupy them for a weekend at Turkey Run State Park in Marshall, Ind.

Park spokesman Billie Thomas said the park offers 2,382 acres of hiking, biking, camping, climbing, fishing and canoeing for Daniel Boone-types as well as an inn, swimming pool and tennis courts for people who don't want to give up the comforts of civilization.

The park is open year round from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily and admission is free. People who want to travel there can take Interstate 74 east to Indiana. Once in Indiana, take Route 41 south to Route 47.

The park is two miles east of the intersection.

Established in 1916, Turkey Run offers its visitors a variety of scenery to wonder at and terrain to explore. Thomas said the park is popular "because of the hiking trails, some of which are easy and some of which are rugged."

The trails take visitors through the park through ravines, gulches and canyons which are a result of the Wisconsin glacier which covered the north portion of the park.

Eastern Botany Professor John Speer, who has taken his survey of local flora class to the park, said hikers can take a series of three ladders from one of the cliffs into a ravine 75-to-100 feet below to explore some of the canyons and rock formations.

"Boulder Canyon is a place where glacial eratics, boulders of granite, was carried by the Wisconsin glacier. Most rocks are called Pennsylvania sandstone and were deposited there about 270 million years ago," Speer said.

Speer added that while hiking is popular at the park, canoeing down Sugar Creek, which runs through the park, also draws its share of participants.

Thomas said although the park doesn't handle canoe rental, there are private agencies which offer canoe rentals for a reasonable fee.

Turkey Run also has a nature center which is open seasonally and offers hiking tours and other programs throughout the course of the spring and summer. The nature center also has a planetarium.

People who like horseback riding can ride on the miles of bridle trails the park has, and bike enthusiasts can rent bicycles for $2.50 an hour to peddle around the park.

Sugar Creek also has bass, bluegill and other fish available to catch providing people purchase an Indiana state fishing license first.

Thomas said the park's campground is equipped with modern restrooms and showers and most of the sites will accommodate trailers. Those with electric hookups cost $9 a night while those without electric hookups go for $5.50 a night.

For people who just want to get away from it all, but who don't want to lose all the modern conveniences of home, the park has an inn which is open all year and has an olympic-size swimming pool with a bathhouse and wading pool.

Thomas said it cost $40.95 for a double room on weekdays and $44.10 for a double room on weekends. The pool opens Memorial Day and closes Labor Day.

Those people that like the historic aspects of parks can visit the Lusk Home which was built in 1841 by the first settler in the area. Thomas said there is also an old log church in the park that was constructed 1871.

Thomas said alcoholic beverages are allowed on park grounds providing the people bringing them into the park are 21 years of age. She said park policy prohibits kegs on the park premises.

Thomas said not every activity mentioned is in full swing, so it might be wise to call the park at (317) 597-2635 for more information about when activities will be offered.

Turkey Run State Park, located near Marshall Indiana, has hiking trails, camping, picnic areas, an inn and other outdoor activities for visitors. The park has a total of 2,382 acres of land and was established in 1916.

Area stables offer more than horseback riding

By ROCHELLE ELLIOTT

Staff writer

Horse stables in the Charleston-Mattoon area offer more to students than just horseback riding.

Camping, exploring hiking trails, eating picnic lunches with your sweetheart, barn parties and hay rides are other opportunities offered at the RK Corral in Arcola.

The RK Corral consists of 120 acres of forest preserves with a lot of wildlife and is located 10 minutes from Mattoon, said RK Corral manager Mary Piper.

Trail rides cost $10 an hour, and a selection available of five horses. Piper said they expect to have almost 15 more horses by June.

The RK Corral charges $3 a person to camp on their land, while wood for campfires is furnished as well as picnic tables, chairs and a bonfire area.

Groups can make arrangements for barn parties with food and can bring their own food and drinks to complete the evening.

If the group renting the barn consists of 25 people or more, the party will include a hay ride around the grounds, Piper said.

She said to get to the Corral, students should take "Route 45 north. Then just after the Douglas County sign, and just before Arcola there is a sign posted. Follow the signs from there."

ROCHELLE ELLIOTT/Staff photographer

Betty Becker, co-owner of Becker's Stables, leads Poncho, one of her horses available for riding, back to its stall from the pasture.

The Corral is open year around, and all week from dawn to dusk.

Reservations aren't necessary, she said, but it is a good idea to call ahead (268-3717) on weekends to see how busy they are if you want your whole group to ride together, or if you wish to work out some other type of special arrangement.

Lessons are $8 per hour, and you can keep scheduling them until you know everything there is to know about horseback riding, care and grooming. Piper said this usually doesn't take more than 10 lessons.

"I love working with the public and have enjoyed animals since childhood," Piper said.

Piper said it may soon undergo several outside feature changes, go into boarding horses, build an inside arena and improve the overall quality of the land.

If students don't have time to make the trip to the RK Corral they can always stay closer to home.

Becker's Stables in Charleston offers trail rides, hay rides, barn parties, horse boarding, an indoor and outdoor arena, tack shop for horse supplies, riding lessons and a picnic area.

Their 120 acres of land located features trails with hills, woods, streams and flat prairies.

From campus, one can find Becker's by going up Seventh Street to Madison Avenue and following Route 316 for 3 miles.

For barn parties, groups consisting of anywhere from 25 to 300 people can rent the barn at an average cost of $3 a person.

The price is $7 an hour for a trail ride and six horses are available at one time.

Becker's Stables' co-owner Betty Becker said "I've never had anyone say it was a boring ride."

Little or no experience is actually needed, she said. Becker said they have some really safe horses that little girls could even ride on.

Of course, for those that still lack confidence to try horseback riding, they offer lessons for $15 an hour or a pack of 10 lessons for $120.

Their hours are noon to 5 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Becker said these hours may get later as the days get longer.

Becker had not owned a horse before February 1988, but has found it very enjoyable since then.

"I love horses and animals and being outside. I don't have to answer to anyone but horses, she said."

In the future, Becker hopes to get a larger farm going, buy more horses and make enough money to afford full time help - especially with trail rides.

Lantz Gym equipment available for use

By DEBBIE CARLSON

Staff writer

The time: Sometime in the afternoon. The place: Charleston. The date: Any Saturday or Sunday. The event: None.

Does this scenario sound familiar? If it does, there are things to do to chase away the weekend afternoon blahs.

Lantz Gym offers sports equipment to fill the boring afternoons. Anything from basketballs to canoes are available. To rent equipment from Lantz, students must bring a valid student ID and just about anything the equipment room has is at a student's disposal to be used anywhere, even off-campus.

The borrowed equipment has to be back either "before 9 p.m. or at 8 a.m. the next school day so if you check out a basketball or volleyball on Friday it'll have to be back by Monday at eight," said Don Davidson, locker room attendant at Lantz Gym.

The only thing that a student ID will not hold is a canoe. To rent one of these, a $40 deposit is required while the equipment can be kept for the weekend.

The person who rents the canoe gets access to all the equipment needed including canoe, oars, life jackets and tie-down ropes.

Class tackles outdoors

Editor in chief

For those students who love the outdoors, especially hiking, climbing and foraging, Eastern's Botany Department has just the class to capture the spirit of exploration in all of us.

Survey of Local Flora is a two-credit hour course which can be taken in the spring and fall. One section of the class meets on Friday nights and all day Saturday for four week-ends.

The class, in its fourth year, is taught by Botany professor John Speer who takes the class around the area to identify trees and flowering plants.

"We have them on the hiking trails all day identifying trees and flowering plants," Speer said. Speer said some students in the class are also very knowledgeable about birds and the class gives them a chance to use that knowledge to spot different kinds of species.

Speer said some of the highlights of the class have been trips to the Botanical Garden in St. Louis and to Herrins Pond in Southern Illinois to see the Blue Herrin rookery and cypress swamps where bald cypress trees grow.

Book tells of history's 'invisible men'

NEW YORK (AP) - Historical novelist Barbara Chase-Riboud, whose first book dusted the cobwebs from the obscure tale of Thomas Jefferson's slave mistress Sally Hemings, has a new work reviving another of what she calls history's "invisible men."

"Echo of Lions" (William Morrow, $19.95) tells the story of what is believed to be the only successful slave rebellion in American history.

Joseph Cinque, a Mende warrior, is brought to Cuba in 1839 to be sold as a slave in the New World. After he and more than four dozen other men are purchased and put aboard the Spanish schooner Amistad to be taken to their owners' homes, he masterminds an uprising, kills the captain and orders the surviving crew to sail them back to Africa.

For two months the ship zig-zags up the coast of the United States as the men think they are heading home. When the vessel, its sails in tatters and those aboard nearly dead from lack of food and water, finally lands at New York's Long Island, and the men are taken into custody.

The young nation's court system must decide whether the Africans are property belonging to the Spaniards who bought them or free men who had been abducted and illegally taken to Cuba. Abolitionists push the case to the U.S. Supreme Court, with former President John Quincy Adams.

Adventure film's effects stunning

BY ROGER JOHNSON
Times Writer

What better way to spend the beautiful days of Spring than inside a dark, child-tested box — I mean movie theater. My tan is non-existent and my night vision is perfect.

Well there is good news and bad news on the screens of America. First the good news. The four films I got to see were worth the price of admission which is now equal to the cost of a nuclear clean-up).

By far, the best of them was the latest from director Terry Gilliam ("Time Bandits" and "Brazil"). "The Adventures of Baron Munchausen" is an epic fantasy that is flawlessly brought to the screen. Gilliam's imagination is limited only by the technology to create the illusions. This film's fantasy sequences are visually stunning.

The film is the story of an 18th century Baron and his travels which take him around the globe and sometimes beyond it. One of the funniest sequences involves Robin Williams as the King of the Moon, a character whose head floats separately from his body. The body is concerned only with "orgasming and other pleasures of the flesh" while the head prefers more intellectual pleasures. The King's head loathes the body which makes for an interesting battle of sorts.

Next on the list is another period piece, "Dangerous Liaisons." The movie boasts the expert acting talents of both Glenn Close and John Malkovich, who attended Eastern.

The story is a wicked tale of lust and deception as Close and Malkovich play games with emotions and virginity.

It is each of the character's assumptions that they are superior manipulators of the human will and soul. The challenge lies in causing the pure of heart and mind to be swayed into the pleasures of the flesh; contrary to their reputations.

Beyond the Oscar quality performances, (Malkovich was ignored this year) this film's strength is in its script. The dialogue is witty and clever and avoids over stylizing the story based on the period of the film. If you thought that Close was nasty in "Fatal Attraction," she redefines it in this film.

"Skin Deep" is one of Blake

Edwards' funniest films since his classic "10". The story is the same analysis of middle age, but the performance of the film's star, John Ritter, brings the crisp script to life.

Tormented by his womanizing and boozing, the ailing writer tries desperately to get it together. The funniest moments in the film involve some glow-in-the-dark jokes, much too personal to-go into on these pages.

A pleasant surprise awaits the audience in "Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure." Two years and several edits after it was first made, this film has finally taken off for Orion Pictures.

The movie is the story of two friends who are in danger of "heavenously failing" their history class unless they present something spectacular.

Wise' return to directing wows critics

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robert Wise is the wonder of the movie season: a 74-year-old Oscar winner who has directed an action-filled, tightly budgeted movie on the mean streets of Manhattan's lower East Side.

"Rooftops" has proved less than a wonder with critics and at the box office, but reviewers have generally praised Wise's direction. And more than one observer has marveled at his achievement after a 10-year lull.

"I hadn't been on a set for so long that I didn't know how it would go," he admitted in an interview at his Beverly Hills office. "I found I got right back into it as if I had never missed a beat. I think I really had the respect of the crew people who were there. I had heard of the crew say, 'Hey, what kind of vitamins are you taking?' You're always up here ahead of us."

Drivers test fears take their toll

BY SANDY SKADAUSKI
Staff writer

At the age of 16, every teen has this unusual yearning for a four-wheel vehicle. The big trend setter was the one who had the hot car, the hot guy or girl, and of course, the latest curfew.

For some strange reason, I was one of the teens who happened to miss the craze of owning my own car. Oh, it wasn't the fact that I didn't want my own car, it was just that I didn't think I could financially keep one. As I look back on it now, I think it was probably because I was afraid of facing the driving instructor at the Drivers License Bureau.

After hearing so many horror stories, I was beginning to wonder if it was really necessary to learn how to drive. Driving with my parents was bad enough. Nonetheless, on my 16th birthday my father and I went out to the bureau.

We got to the office and I gradually began to relax as we stood in line. It seemed like forever before reaching the counter. I was quickly ushered off to the parking lot with a guy that reminded me of Don Knotts.

"OK, don't blow it. This isn't as difficult as it seems," I thought to myself. I ended up choking the engine. I made all the necessary checks and then pulled out. "Wait a minute. You forgot something," said the Don Knotts look-alike. What! Instant paranoia gripped my hands on the wheel and my knuckles turned white.

Quickly, I mentally ran through the motions I just made. "Dummy. You forgot the seatbelt!" I thought. I shoved the car into park and buckled up. "Let's try this again," the instructor sighed.

Out of the corner of my eye, I could see the instructor furiously scribbling on his sheet. He instructed me to back around a corner. Well, I backed up all right, but I had the wheel turned too sharp and practically ended up in someone's front yard.

By the time we got back to the Bureau, I was an emotional mess.

Five minutes seemed like 24 hours as he scribbled here and there. Finally he looked up. "Well," he said. "You passed - barely, but you did pass. I suggest you have more time behind the wheel with your parents and relax."

Easy for him to say. But did I hear the word pass? All at once, my muscles collapsed and I staggered out of the car as if drunk.

To this day, sometimes when I take out my license with the brilliant red "under 21" stamped all over it, I smirk and think "Geez, was it all worth it?"
